

Back in Time (Doorways to the Past Book 3)

Alis found romance, but when she and Matt visit her family farm, she once again finds a note, this time in an old jar and she knows what that means. But as she stands on the brink of time, she must decide: Should she answer the plea written by her grandmother as a child? What will happen if she takes Matt with her on a trip back in time? Or can she risk taking Matt at all? The doorway to the past stands before them in a derelict greenhouse. Ali is torn between new love standing beside her and the call to rescue the life of a child eighty years ago. What would you do?
