

Mormonism Unveiled

Mormonism Unveiled [sic] is an anti-Mormon book published in 1834 by Eber D. Howe. The title page proclaims the book to be a contemporary expose of Mormonism, and makes the claim that the historical portion of the Book of Mormon text was based upon a manuscript written by Solomon Spalding. A faithful account of that singular imposition and delusion, from its rise to the present time. With sketches of the characters of its propagators, and a full detail of the manner in which the famous Golden Bible was brought before the world. To which are added, inquiries into the probability that the historical part of the said Bible was written by one Solomon Spalding, more than twenty years ago, and by him intended to have been published as a romance (Howe 1834, p. Title page). The publication of Mormonism Unveiled is significant in Mormon history as it is considered to be the first anti-Mormon book (Mitton 2004, p. xviii). The book represented the first significant opposition to Mormonism by an author who had actually addressed the contents of the Book of Mormon. Of the many subjects discussed in the book, two had a significantly lasting impact. The first of these was the publication of a number of affidavits and other statements related to the character of Joseph Smith, Jr. and Martin Harris. The second significant item was the introduction of a popular early authorship theory for the Book of Mormon known as the Spalding-Rigdon theory of Book of Mormon authorship.
