

A boy entranced and fascinated by girls' ultra-frilly clothing, who tempts fate by deliberately creating a situation to fulfil his dreams, to find he loses control, and his dream turns into a nightmare of intense feminisation and ridicule, which cause him torment and utter humiliation. He's made the biggest mistake of his young life and must now endure endless and very real 'petticoat punishment'. SHERALYN remembers, age seven, being transfixed by a white satin party dress and sticky-out petticoats worn by a pretty girl in his Primary school class. Anything girlish and frilly were magical from then on. Aged twelve, he saw a newspaper report of a boy of the same age whose Headmistress put him into a ruffled dress and frilly under-things because he refused to have his bobbed hair cut. So dressed he was forced to parade amongst, then join, a class of giggling schoolgirls. She's been happily married for 25 years to a wonderful and understanding wife. She hopes you enjoy reading her story as much as she did writing it. She'd be very happy to hear from any reader, via the publisher.
